Working Families to Pay Less

Green Bay... Representative John Macco (R-Ledgeview) released the following statement in response to the Legislative Fiscal Bureau's recent report on the 2019 Marketplace Facilitators Bill.

"These last eight months have been hard for everyone," said Rep. Macco. "I am proud of the work that my Ways and Means Committee did to provide a larger than expected tax break for those Wisconsinites who need it most."

"Those in the lowest bracket will be paying 11.5% less in income tax this year, and the second bracket will be paying 10.7% less," said Rep. Macco. "These are real, tangible savings that will help low income Wisconsinites keep a roof over their head and food on the table. As Chairman of the Tax Committee, I could not be more proud."

The committee on ways and means determined that any additional sales tax revenue should be used to offset the lower income tax brackets. Thanks to an increase in online sales over the last eight months, the online sales tax revenue collected by the state increased by $257.3 million, allowing those in the bottom two brackets to enjoy an even larger tax break than originally expected.
